I highly recommend running this in Google Chrome. The issues found during the presentation were due to my hot fixing minutes before. The website has not been updated since 4th September 2018.

Who is my animation for?

Anybody eligible for a driving test or even interested in getting their license. This doesn't just mean teenagers.

What was it trying to accomplish?

The animation is primarily educational. Any extra elements like unnecessary visual effects or added sounds are there to keep the user entertained. Tests are boring and this serves to distract the user from realising it's a test. I do not regret making the crashes more fun than getting the correct answer.
